

About LCL: Video Transcript

I'm Leah Chang, the founder of LCL.

We are an online learning consultancy based in Canada, led by women who specialize in educational technology.

We're a team of experienced consultants from across Canada and the US with a very broad background in Learning Management Systems, curriculum and learning experience design.

We support our clients with full-cycle eLearning services and that means anything from designing microlearning to delivering full-scale professional development programs, and of course making sure you have the right systems to make it all happen.

While we don't design PowerPoint-like click-through eLearning, we DO however offer creative learning products that fit your resources.

Clients choose us because we're proven professionals that bring integrity to all of our projects. And because we support them with their goals.

We typically support clients in two ways at the same time:

- The first is we design and develop effective online learning experiences: everything from eLearning to blended courses or even instructor led training.
- The second is that we ensure our clients have the right systems to launch and deliver the programs.

So it's this parallel support– designing both the online courses as well as supporting you with back end systems– that helps us achieve success together.

We really want your learners to get a consistently great experience from beginning to end.

Our clients appreciate our full-cycle support, and they love working with us too!

Ask us about designing impactful learning experiences and learning technology. We can't wait to hear from you.
